Editor's Note

The Loyola University of Chicago Law Journal Editorial Board is pleased to publish the annual Illinois Law Survey covering significant Illinois Supreme Court and appellate court opinions decided between July 1988 and July 1989. The Survey also highlights key legislation enacted during the same period. For the first time, we are including student-authored casenotes that discuss two noteworthy Illinois Supreme Court cases decided during the Survey year.

Since its inception in 1986, our annual review of important developments in substantive Illinois law has proven an invaluable tool for researchers and practitioners alike. Of the four issues we publish each year, the Survey is most requested. As in previous years, the Survey has given student writers the inestimable experience of co-authoring articles with professors and practicing attorneys.

All good things must come to an end, however, and the Survey is no exception. In an effort to keep the Journal fresh and timely, and to give student writers increased opportunities to explore legal issues at length in notes or comments, we have decided that this year's Survey will be our last. We hope it is our best.
